

How can I understand the letter to the church of Pergamos in Revelation (2:12-17)?

The next section of the book of Revelation is a series of 7 letters sent to 7 different first century churches. The churches that were to receive the letters were churches that already existed and the condition of those churches are what is being addressed. It has nothing to do with the general state of the church during 7 epochs of time but the churches with the described characteristics existed in the first century and they continue to exist today.

God promises “manna”, “white stone”, “a new name”. The manna is the “living bread from heaven” which ultimately points to Jesus Christ as the one who sustains their life and enables them to dwell in the kingdom of God. The white stone ultimately refers to Christ who is the chief anchor or corner stone. All of salvation rests upon Him. It could be related to the Urim and Thummim used in the priestly perfect judgment. The new name is a reference to Jesus. A people are to be called by the name that God gives to them. The people of Israel were expected to be identified as and to function as though they were God's people, but they refused to do so. As a result, God sought after a new people. Ones that God would be proud to identify them as His people. These are a people who are given the new name of God's people – Christian –
